BOY IN FURY STABS PRETTY

Bella Hecht Dead in Hospital—Assailant Also Wounded.

Mystery surounds a stabbing fray in a Malden lane diamond broker's office at noontime to-day, from which the wo apparent victims, Bella Hecht, a Meyerowitz, fifteen years old, the off boy, emerged covered with knife wound

Hospital, said the boy attacked her an stabled her in half a dozen places be fore she could make a move in defense Then, she declared, she grappled wit of the knife and used it upon him unti-he fell on the floor. The boy, who is se seriously wounded that he may die sticks to his first story that a strang-man assaulted them both.

The stabbing occurred in the office of Meyerowitz Brothers, Room 121 Lorsch Building, No. 37 Maiden Lane Both members of the firm are out of the city, and Miss Rose Meyerowitz, a nephew of the Meverowitz Brothers He lives at No. 8 West One Hundrel and Seventeenth street.

A little later loud cries attracted the hall; her face slashed, and Jacob was found in the office with seven cuts stabbed the two with a knife. The stranger, he said, jumped through the window from the second floor into the area and escaped. The police found a huge blood-stained pocket knife new and shiny with a blade ten inch

But soon after reaching the hospital the girl collapsed. Then it was found that one of the stabs in her body, a deep one near the heart, would almost certainly kill her. An assistant from the Distract Attorney's many escapes from collisions, and boats office was rushed to the casualty ward to take her ante-morren statement. She said that young Meyerowitz had flung himself upon her without warning or provocation; that there had even when the skipper of a triendly tag located it. The beat finally docked half no quarrel between them and that she could not explain his fury. She said an hour late. This delay was about the she only turned the knife on the boy average on all the ferry lines after she had disarmed him in order to
